M. W. McN. Feb 4 '07.

CONTENTS

OF

VOL. II. AMERICAN—VOL. XXXIII. ENGLISH.

Mr. Cobbett's taking leave of his Countrymen, . 6

Introduction to No. II. 33

A Letter to the People of Hampshire.—On the Portsdown Meeting.—Hampshire Petition.—Mr. Chute's charge against the Meeting.—What does wild innovation mean?—A list of innovations.—False charges of Mr Perry against Reformers.—Surrender of Sinecures.—Political Clubs and Combinations, . 37

To the People of England, Scotland, and Ireland.—Mr. Cobbett's arrival at New-York and Long Island.—Answers to the slanders published against him after his departure from England.—Stamp-Office humbug.—Gen. Kempt's humbug.—Journey from London to Liverpool.—Disagreeable and perilous voyage by sea.—Remarks on Emigration.—Plentiful and happy lives of the people of America.—Why not the same in England?—We do not want to change the laws or the form of government in England.—We only want our rights.—Legal right to resist oppression.—Answer to the base Morning Chronicle, ... 65

A Letter to Lord Viscount Sidmouth on his Circular to the Lords Lieutenant, dated on the 27th of March, 1817; and on divers other matter relating to the situation and the contrivances of the Boroughmongers, ... 97

Letter I. A History of the last hundred days of English freedom, ending with the passing of the absolute Power-of-imprisonment Act, in the month of March, 1817, addressed to Mr. John Goldsmith, of Hambledon, and Mr. Richard Hinxman, of Chilling, who were the Chairman and Seconder at the Meeting of the People of Hampshire, on Portsdown-Hill, in the month of February, 1817, to a Petition for a Redress of Grievances, and for a Reform in the Commons house of Parliament, ... 129

Letter II. Continuation of the History down to the Opening of the Parliament.—Post Script.—Base Calumnies of Mr. Perry.—Mr. Curwen's Poor-Law Project.—Report on Sinecures, ... 161

Letter III. Opening of the Session.—Speech.—Invitation to Strong Measures.—Attack on the Prince —— Who contrived it?——Thanksgiving for the escape.—Language in Parliament.—Mr. Dawson and Mr. Lamb, Lord Milton and Mr. Elliot.—Affection of these men for the people.—The people discovered to be ignorant.—"Lower Orders," . 225

Letter IV. On the extraordinary conduct of Sir Francis Burdett, during the last Winter, on his motion for a Committee, and on his Speech at the Westminster Dinner, on the 23d of May last, . 253

Letter V. On the Green Bag Plots and Report. On the conduct of certain individuals relative to these. On the Renewal of the Absolute-Power of-Imprisonment Act. On the question, whether this Act will ever cease, ... 417

Letter VI. Doctor Watson's trial and acquittal.—Acquittal of the other State Prisoners.—The unravelling of the Plots.—The whole scheme blown into the air,—The mask pulled off.—The Boroughmongers left without the smallest disguise.—The real men of blood discovered.—Conclusion of the History of the last hundred days of English Freedom, 449

The Grand Exposure.—To the Right Hon. Nicholas Vansittart, Chancellor of the Exchequer, . 193

To the Labouring Classes in England, Scotland, and Ireland.—On the Report of the Finance Committee, relative to Sinecure Places, which Committee was appointed at the beginning of the Session in January, 1817, and which Report is dated on the 28th of March 1817.—Also on the project for relieving the Poor by the means of the Exchequer Bills, . 257

A Peep into the Den of Sinecures, Pensions, and Grants. Addressed to the Labouring Classes in England, Scotland, and Ireland, ... 289

To the Boroughmongers.—On the several symptoms of their approaching fall; and on the prospect before them in case of that fall, ... 321

To Major Cartwright, the venerable leader of reform. On Mr. Wooller's attack upon me; on that gentleman's trials for libel; on the proposition to elect the Lord Mayor as one of the Members for the City of London, ... 385

To Lord Viscount Folkestone, On the question whether a Reform of the Parliament would tend to injure and degrade the Nobility, ... 481

To Peter Walker, Esquire, of Worth, in the county of Sussex. On the Spy System.—On the Calumniating System.—On the conduct of some base Merchants and Master Manufacturers.—On the Conduct and Project of Mr. Wooller.—On Emigration to America, ... 513

To William Wilberforce, Esq. A member of Parliament for the Rotten Borough of Bramber. On his general public conduct, and especially on his recent support of, and attempt to defend, the renewal of the Absolute Power of Imprisonment Act, by which the people of England are placed on the same footing as that of the subjects of the Old Bourbons, . 545

To Earl Fitzwilliam, On what the Morning Chronicle calls your "Munificent Donation" to some of the distressed people of Ireland, ... 577

Letter I. To Mr. Benbow, of the town of Manchester, One of the English Reformers now imprisoned in some prison in Great Britain, under a warrant of a Secretary of State, in virtue of an act, lately passed, lodging the absolute power of imprisonment in the hands of the Ministry, . . . 609

Letter II. To Mr Benbow, &c 641

Letter I. To William Hallett, Esq of Denford in Berkshire. On the noble stand which the Magistrates of that county have made in behalf of the Reformers, who have been put into dungeons under the Absolute Power of Imprisonment Act; and on other matters relating to the desperate state of the Boroughmongers, ... 673

Letter II. To William Hallett, Esq of Denford in Berkshire. On Sir Francis Burdett's motion; and on Corruption's new source of corporation . 705

Letter I. To Henry Hunt, Esq. of Middleton in the County of Southampton. On the Intrigues of the Junto, in Westminster, for making that noble Spirited City a Rotten Borough, ... 737

Letter II. To Henry Hunt, Esq. &c. . . 737

Letter to a friend in Lancashire. On the Spy System mixed with the dragooning System.—On Captain Raynes's Confessions, relative to the bribery and perjury employed by Generals Maitland and Acklan.—On the state of the Paper-Currency.—On the Predictions of Mr. Paine and myself, . 769